Lindbergh Stunts
Fire Prevention Week
Another Biggest Bank
Poor Broker—Sold Short

Colonel Lindbergh is a wonderful flyer, one of this nation's most precious possessions.

For that reason it is too bad that he cannot be persuaded to exercise reasonable caution.

An accident to Colonel Lindbergh would be, as President Hoover has said, "a great blow to the affections of the United States."

It would also be a great blow to aviation in the United States, which perhaps interests Colonel Lindbergh more.

It would check the progress of aviation seriously, arousing great distrust.

When Colonel Lindbergh was stunting recently at Cleveland he amused himself swooping downward almost to the ground, at terrific speed, suddenly turning upward.

A competent engineer watching the stunt said: "His plane weighs 2,000 pounds. The stunt just performed puts a terrific strain on the wings and other parts equivalent to changing the weight of the plane from 2,000 pounds to 30,000 pounds."

Selecting the anniversary of the Chicago fire, President Hoover proclaims a fire prevention week, urging "the exercise of ordinary care on the part of our citizens." He notes that "for two consecutive years fire losses in the United States have been decreased."

Life imprisonment, in every case, for arson might help, and would be justified, since arson indicates willingness to commit murder.

Important and neglected is the task of fighting forest fires. Chemists and airplanes should combine to solve that problem.

Again "The world's biggest bank" makes its bow, bigger than any thus far.

Charles E. Mitchell, head of New York's National City bank, absorbs the Corn Exchange bank, creating an institution with resources of two thousand five hundred millions of dollars.

This one financial giant will have 100 branch banks in New York. The old-fashioned million has given way to the new "billion."

When will the TRILLION be transferred from books on astronomy to the books of United States bankers?

In Wall street a broker has closed up. His story is sad and brief. HE SOLD SHORT.

And, most strange, he sold bank stocks short.

To "short" a bank stock with banks getting from 10 to 20 per cent for money on call, calls for an investigation in lunacy.

You read that the naval conference will depend largely on what Japan wants and agrees to. The powerful face of the Japanese Premier Hamaguchi, who will do the deciding, tells you that Japan will talk plainly.

If Uncle Sam and Britain cannot agree, Mr. Hamaguchi might be useful as a good excuse.

Why doesn't Uncle Sam decide for himself what he wants in airplanes, cruisers, submarines and everything else? Do we NEED the approval of another country?

Mr. Good, secretary of war, speaking with President Hoover's authority, says the country is prepared to spend hundreds of millions in addition to fifteen hundred millions already spent for harbor and river improvements. The secretary of war says: "The government will link together every part of the country with a chain of inland waterways, making one great artery of trade."

That's good news. The people want national improvements, have plenty of money, and, fortunately, they have a President who is an engineer and understands problems involved.

He would rather attend to great permanent enterprises and let some body else attend to bootleg liquor.

News from Jerusalem that will doubtless cause indignation and mass meetings tells of the arrest of 44 Jews of Haifa, held without bail, accused of premeditated murder of Arabs during the recent Arab-Jewish riots.

Happy Free State of Ireland! It lacks the blessing of prohibition, but on the other hand it lacks our stupendous crime wave.

Irish military barracks are being changed into dwellings for workers. And Irish prisons are changed to broadcasting stations and other uses.

While this country multiplies its prisons, containing thousands of prisoners, with occasional frightful rebellion, the Irish Free State reports a total prison population of 700.

Spain is disturbed because the nation seems to have reached the "stationary point in population."

No wonder—the same animal cannot have a good brood mass and a good cart horse.

DR. KEYPORT V. P. MICHIGAN MEDICS

Dr. C. R. Keyport was elected second vice-president of the Michigan State Medical society at their meeting held in Jackson last week, being advanced from the position of third vice. The meeting was attended by about 2,000 delegates.

Dr. Keyport's success as a surgeon and physician has brought him into prominence throughout the state, hence the fine compliment in electing him to the high office of vice president.

Other officers elected were Dr. J. D. Brook, Grandville, president; Dr. Geo. F. Inch, Traverse City, 1st vice-president; Dr. E. H. Webster, Soo, 3rd vice and Dr. F. C. Warnhuis, Grand Rapids, secretary.

MICH. PUBLIC SERVICE EMPLOYEES MEET AT CHEBOYGAN

Employees of the Michigan Public Service Co. of this district of which F. A. Swanson of Cheboygan is manager, held an "educational meeting" at Cheboygan Tuesday evening. The local branch was represented by Manager Sigwald Hanson and Don Reynolds of the sales and office department. Accompanying them were Mayor Chris Olsen and O. P. Schumann.

These meetings are arranged and planned by the employees exclusively and the managers understand that they are to keep their ears but, except that they are always welcome to the meetings.

The programs consist of talks by employees on topics pertaining to the good of the work. The elimination of waste, handling of complaints, and other kindred subjects are talked on and discussed. In addition there is usually a short one or two act skit presented, illustrating the disadvantages and finally the advantages of electricity in the home.

Those presenting talks and papers at these meetings are men from the various service departments. Men who know first hand the problems that confront them in their daily tasks. The general discussions bring up many points that, after being threshed out, result in greater savings to the company and better service to the public.

FILM DEPICTS LANDSCAPE TRAGEDY

Directors of the East Michigan Tourist association last fall formally took action toward the beautification of highways and community environs and the elimination of unsightly and disfiguring buildings. It is interesting to note the association directors feel, that seven of the State Federations of Women's clubs have bought the motion picture "What is Happening to the Landscape of America," a five-minute film that depicts the scale on which highways are transforming the highways into billboard lanes, highways incidentally, which the motorist's money has built.

The fact that the women find theatre managers and chambers of commerce willing to show the picture is evidence of the fast-mounting tide of opposition to what the money changes are doing to the temple of Nature.

Already 256 national advertisers and agencies have endorsed the movement to restrict outdoor advertising to commercial districts.

The Thumb of Michigan Michigan is fortunate in that she has a Thumb, for the biologist tells us that the thumb is the way in which man differs from the rest of the species. And in that thumb, there are splendid farms and fortunate farmers. They may not think so at times, but when I saw them the other day, they seemed to be on good terms with God.

I watched the farmers in their fields.

And marveled secretly.

They are so very calm and sure.

They have such dignity.

They know the simple things so well.

Although their learning's small, They find a steady, brown content Where some fine none at all.

And all their quarrellings with God Are soon made up again;

They grant forgiveness when He sends His silver, tardy rain.

Their pleasure is so grave and full, When gathered crops are trim, You know they think their work was done

In partnership with Him.

Selected.

Let us find our happiness this year in knowing that all worth-while work is done in partnership with God.

MICHIGAN LICENSE PLATES TO BE YELLOW AND BLACK

Michigan license plates for 1930 will be the reverse of the present color combination. The background will be deep yellow with black lettering. Pennsylvania's plates will also be the same color but of course a difference in lettering. Indiana's will have a blue background with orange letters. Alabama a red background with white letters. Wisconsin will have white letters on a gray background.

FIRE PREVENTION ON THE FARM

DEVOTED TO SAFEGUARD PROPERTY

Backed by the Governor, State Fire Marshal and Superintendent of Public Instruction

Fire Prevention Week means more this year than ever before because activities along that line will be extended into the rural districts instead of being confined principally to cities and villages as heretofore. The apparent increase in the burning of farm buildings was brought to the attention of Governor Green and State Fire Marshal Livingston, with a request that efforts be made to interest the rural people in the proper observance of the occasion, which was met with hearty accord and the Governor has incorporated in his proclamation an appeal to the farmers to join with those in the cities and villages to make the 1929 Fire Prevention Week the greatest success of all preceding years.

The period set for Fire Prevention Week comes during the most busy time of the year for folks on the farm. In early October they are gathering their crops with all speed possible, that they may be marketed or safely stored before freezing weather.

That plan as devised for Fire Prevention on the farm requires but a part of one day, which any farmer may well devote to safe-guarding his property against fire.

Acting upon the suggestions of the Governor a meeting was held in the office of the State Fire Marshal, Lansing, to perfect plans for carrying out the rural inspection, which is as follows:

Teachers of all Michigan rural schools, comprising about 8,500, will be furnished with Fire Prevention literature which applies to rural property, which will be read to the pupils, Friday, October 11th, making that Fire Prevention day in rural schools. At the close of school that day one pupil in each family will be provided with an inspection blank, which will be taken home to the parents. On Saturday morning, October 12th, the parents are urged to join with their children in making an inspection of their property, recording the results on the inspection blank furnished, which will be returned to the teacher the following Monday.

The teacher will forward all inspection reports to the State Fire Marshal, Lansing, which will form the basis reports which will later be made from that office.

The information imparted to the pupils at their Fire Prevention session, Friday, together with their taking part in the home inspection will make an impression upon the growing minds which will follow them through all their years, causing them to be real fire preventionists.

The plan, as originated, backed by the Governor, State Fire Marshal, Superintendent of Public Instruction, the press of the state, insurance companies, county school commissioners, and rural school teachers, is sure to be a marked success, and it will doubtless be followed with a marked decrease in fire losses in the rural districts in the years to follow, and no doubt will be copied by fire prevention authorities of other states.

Parents, living in the country, who have no children in the schools, will be provided with inspection blanks by the teacher of the local school, that they may join in this laudable undertaking, making their district 100 per cent, returning the completed inspection blank to the teacher who will forward same with those returned by the pupils to the State Fire Marshal.

Should the supply of inspection reports in the hands of the rural school teacher become exhausted they may be secured from any subscriber of the Michigan Farmer, as it will be printed in that publication in their issue of the first week in October.

OTSEGO AND ROSCOMMON COUNTIES ENJOY FINE TOURIST SEASON

Reports from Otsego County are that the season just closed was one of the most successful resort years. The state park was crowded almost to capacity during July and August. One hundred additional cottages on Otsego Lake would not have taken care of the demand of vacationists.

Roscommon County reports are that the tourist and resort season just closed was one of the best ever enjoyed. Cottages were filled, hotels crowded, and business was very good. The Roscommon Herald-News says that more deals in resort property were made in 1929 than in a long time and a considerable amount of money was spent in the erection of cottages and other improvements.

Class Day a Big Success

The annual class day program was held Friday afternoon and evening, Sept. 20, and judging from the enthusiasm and school spirit manifested through the whole affair, it was a grand success. All the stunts went off with pep and vim which indicated the true loyalty of the students to Grayling High School and to their respective classes. The day proved even more popular than last year, new features having been added to the list of class activities.

School closed at 1:50 p. m. Friday to allow the students time to prepare for the games which started at 2:00 sharp.

The first on the list was a rope tying contest between the Seniors and Juniors and Sophomores, the Juniors and Sophs. coming through victorious.

The Seniors put up a spirited fight but in the end were overcome by their opponents who fought with true school vigor.

Next came the tug-of-war between the seventh and eighth grades. The sides were quite evenly balanced, but the seventh graders proved to be the best fighters.

Then came the "Ride the Horse" contest. This stunt was a new feature this year. A wooden horse was set up with mats beneath, and each boy (two on the horse) was given a boxing glove on his right hand. The object was to knock his opponent from the horse, thus scoring a point for his class. Each grade was represented, beginning with Kenneth Hoosli, 7th, and Russell Moshier, 8th. The eighth grader proved too strong for the smaller boy, knocking him from the horse with one punch. Then Rudy Harrison, Freshman, and Russel Dunham, Sophomore, fought for victory.

Russel won in a short but rough tussel, in which Rudy was disqualified striking with two hands. Next came Ernest Corwin and Walter Korhonen to fight for Juniors and Seniors respectively. The Senior representative put up a fine battle and finally overcame his Junior adversary. After that the Sophomore winner, Russel Dunham fought Russell Moshier, 8th grader winner. Moshier coming through ahead. This victory brought the 8th grader against Walter Korhonen, Senior representative to fight for the final victory. This was by far the most interesting bout but was all too short, for Russel knocked his opponent from the horse in short order. That ended the boxing contest giving the 8th grade victory.

The flag rush proved the most exciting and hardest game of all with the Freshmen trying to capture the flag from the pole defended by the Juniors and Sophs. The Sophomores and Juniors guarded it gallantly for fifteen minutes, the prescribed time, thereby winning the event. Among those doing notable work for the Freshmen were Donald Akers, William Swanson, and Jack LaGrew, who gave striking examples of Freshman class spirit and loyalty.

All through the afternoon and evening the Seniors could be distinguished by their ribbons of crimson and grey, class colors, and the snappy yell led by Elizabeth Matson.

The banquet was the next thing on the program, and of course, was thoroughly enjoyed. The Board of Education were the principal guests.

M. C. WOULD CUT OUT TWO TRAINS

There seems to be some agitation on the part of the Michigan Central officials to cut out two pullman afternoon trains soon—Nos. 203 and 206. One is now scheduled here at 1:45 p. m., going north, and one at 2:15 p. m., going south. This would leave only one fast train each way daily—one north at 3:55 a. m. and one south at 11:58 p. m.

If the proposed plan goes thru it will make it a hardship for all the cities along this line of railroad. Just how far the proposition has gone is uncertain but every effort should be made to head it off if possible. The matter should be taken up with the State Public Utilities commission and point out to them the need for continuation of this train service. Not a day should be delayed in getting action on the matter.

RIALTO OFFERING FINE ATTRACTIONS

The Rialto is offering its patrons some of the finest talking pictures that are to be had anywhere. No tourist to Grayling people have to go to the city to witness the new productions. Manager Geo. N. Olson is on the alert constantly for the better plays and for that reason we are getting the new ones right off the reel.

At this time there is playing "Midnight Taxi," featuring Antonio Moreno and Helene Costello. Next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday they will present Lewis Stone and Leila Hyman in talking and sound picture "Wonder of Women."

Good attractions are offered every night in the week. There are no dark nights at the Rialto.

SETTING A COMMUNITY BACK

Nothing retards a community like pettiness among its business men or people.

Yet how many towns and small cities are free from its influence?

It is related that not so long ago, in a certain city of about 5,000 inhabitants, the merchants on one side of the court house square banded together to hold a special sale.

They secretly organized their advertising campaign and expected to take their competitors by surprise and net a big profit for themselves.

As they should have had judgment enough to know, the sale was a big failure in not coming up to their expectations, and was harmful to the town because of the bad feeling it engendered among the other merchants.

Nothing is ever accomplished when the vision of a community's business men and its people is so narrow that everything done is only for personal gain.

Helpful cooperation is the only key to community success, and until this lesson is learned, no community is going to progress very far.—Oxford Leader.

THE AVALANCHE FREE For One Year

Every Crawford County farmer purchasing a pure bred bull from the Dairy Sire Train here Thursday, Sept. 26, who turns in a scrub bull in exchange.

It is common knowledge that the fastest road to a profitable dairy herd is through a pure-bred sire of known ancestry and high production.

A dairyman does not need to spend a large amount of money buying a purebred herd.

If he will select a good purebred bull and use it in his herd of good grade cows and eliminate the low producers through Dairy Herd Improvement Association records, he will soon be on the road to profitable dairy production.

Only a very few of the hundreds of thousands of dairy farmers have entire purebred dairy herds, according to E. N. Hansen, Bull Specialist, Michigan State College, but it is hard for many of us to believe that less than one-fourth of the dairymen are using a purebred bull.

To show our interest in better dairying in Crawford County the AVALANCHE is glad to make the above offer. We wish to keep a record of all purchases made that day. Report to this office will entitle purchasers to the above offer—1 year subscription free.

ESSEX

GREATEST IN PERFORMANCE

SPEED—faster than any car ever built in its price class. Not just a fine drawn shade of advantage but a smashing big superiority that easily distances anything in this field. Its supremacy is not based on theoretical horsepower and specially adapted test devices. Essex speed is a real and usable quality—established on the road—established in records at better than 70 miles an hour, all over the country—established by stop-watch timing over measured distances—established by owners who know and constantly demonstrate that nothing can touch it at the price.

GETAWAY—here again the proofs are actual, from 5 to 25 miles in 7 seconds—from 10 to 70 in 19.2 seconds. But more important is the value of Essex getaway in daily service. Its ability is so well known that everyone expects it to be first away at the signal "Go."

SMOOTHNESS—exclusive to the patented Super-Six principle, which no other maker can copy.

ECONOMY—never approached with like performance. You may expect 18 miles to the gallon and upward—many get more—in your Essex the Challenger. Important taxicab companies have chosen Essex the Challenger as exclusive equipment because its total of all operating expenses was the lowest in the whole motor world. To every buyer there is assured fuel and oil economy, durability, tire wear and low maintenance expense.

RELIABILITY—official tests, as well as the experience of 200,000 owners, with the lowest actual records of service cost, establish Essex the Challenger as the "Reliability Car of the Year." Two Essex entries with perfect scores, won the Grand Prize of the famous "Tour de France" reliability classic, against a large field of costlier American and European cars. No other car of whatever price level equalled the perfect record scored by both Essex entries.

EASY TO BUY—Only a few dollars more per month than the lowest priced cars on the market, to own and enjoy this fine and beautiful Essex. See us today for the lowest monthly payment of $12.50. We will finance your purchase on easy terms.

EASY TO OWN—Your present car will be accepted as cash. We will take it over and will probably cover the entire first payment. This is the only way to get the lowest available terms on balance.

John Duckrow has an interesting demonstration on range oil burners going on in the tent next to the 5c to $1 store on Main street. This method of heat in kitchen stoves has proven itself a wonderful success. The method is quite similar to that used in furnace oil burners and there is nothing to get out of away with cause trouble. They do away with dirt and dust that accompany the use of wood or coal. He also handles burners for heating stoves. These burners are made by the Lynn Products Co., of Lynn, Mass. Every burner is guaranteed to operate successfully. Although Mr. Duckrow has just started his demonstration he already has sold quite a number of burners. The public is invited to step into the tent and see the range burners in operation.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fletcher, will be sorry to learn that they are to leave Grayling about October 1st. Mr. Fletcher came to Grayling Oct. 7, 1918 and has been at the Military reservation since that time, where he assisted his son-in-law George Schaible, who is caretaker at this place, both families arriving just about the same time. Mr. Fletcher expects to go into business for himself at his former home in Lansing, he having followed the painting and decorating business for some time previous to coming to Grayling. There they will reside on North Pine Street. Their granddaughter Audrey Hewitt, who was made her home with them here will go with them. The Fletchers are fine citizens and their going will be regretted by many, however they are wished much success.

George Granger returned Sunday to East Lansing to begin his third year at M. S. C. He is taking up civil engineering. He spent the vacation working all summer with a surveying crew for the State Parks division of the State Conservation department. Instead of spending a lot of money for a vacation he helped to survey state parks in nearly every part of the state. It was a fine experience for him and besides he saved up a hundred which will help out on next year's college expenses. George is desirous of a lot of credit for his efforts to obtain an education. After graduating from high school here he operated a trucking business for a couple of years to earn money for college expenses. He was doing well financially but his vision wasn't limited to what the trucking business could do for an enterprising young man. He is now entering his junior year at the college. It won't be long before he will have his A. B. degree. What George Granger has done almost any other intelligent, able-bodied young man can do—if he will. George Granger's characteristic principles, his ambition and his ideals are well worthy of emulation by any young boy or girl.

EAST MICHIGAN'S GREATEST TOURIST SEASON

(By E. M. T. Service)

The summer trekking has ended. Millions of persons who visited East Michigan and Michigan from other states have returned to their homes. They have scampered over "The Nation's Playground" or loafed alongside its Great Lakes, inland lakes and rivers. They have added chapters to their knowledge of history; they have added to their fund of anecdote; they have departed in better health than they came; they have had free cosmological lectures on beauty; they have added light and laughter to their lives.

It was East Michigan's greatest summer resort season. Reports from every section indicate this. Newspapers throughout the entire section in recapitulating the season's industry unreservedly state it was the greatest resort and tourist season.

TO RELEASE PHEASANTS

Pheasants from the three subsidiary yards are now being gathered by Superintendent Donald Lamont of the state game farm at Mason to be prepared for distribution through the districts where experience has shown that these birds succeeded. The birds are no longer distributed through applications sent in by individuals and clubs, but are shipped to and released by the game wardens in areas where additional breeding stock is needed and where the birds' chances of success are best.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

The last cutting of alfalfa in sections of the country where winter killing occurs should be made early enough to allow a growth of 6 to 8 inches for protection in the winter.

In 1840 the average weight of fleece sheared from American sheep was less than 2 pounds. By 1900 it had increased to nearly 5 1/2 pounds. Today it is approaching 8 pounds. There is still room for improvement. Much of this difference has come from progressive weeding out of low producers and by breeding from the heavily fleeced sheep.

Silage made from corn containing moisture enough for proper preservation is more palatable to stock than that made from corn so mature as to need the addition of water. Usually corn should be harvested for silage about a week or ten days before it would be cut for silage. At this time the lower leaves on the stalk are turning brown and the green corn fodder contains about 70 per cent of moisture, which is enough for silage.

Wounds in potatoes are the most frequent source of storage rot, and careful handling during harvest and storage will decrease loss from this source. Cooling freshly harvested potatoes too rapidly may cause wound rot, because of the slowing down of wound repair. If wounds are properly healed before potatoes are placed in storage, and if sufficient ventilation is provided to keep them dry during storage, very low temperature is unnecessary to prevent loss by storage rot.

Well-fattened beef animals from 700 to 800 pounds are in increasing demand at livestock markets. Calves selected for fattening should be of the type that is wide, deep bodied, smooth-thick-fleshed, and well grown, with short legs, and of good quality, as shown by fineness of hair, medium bone, smoothness of flesh, refinement about the head, and a lack of potbellies. Uniformity in size, weight, and color are also advantages in marketing.

The whole tomato plant, and not individual fruits, should be the basis for selecting seed for next season. The prevalent belief that an early variety of tomato may be secured by selecting the first fruits to ripen is erroneous, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, as on any one plant all fruits are equally able to transmit the tendency to earliness. The way to get earliness is to choose plants that produce ripe fruits first. Likewise, in selecting smooth-fruited strains of tomatoes, it is important to choose plants bearing a uniform crop of smooth fruits rather than to select smooth fruits at random after picking from the vines.

Fall Plow for Permanent Pasture
At the Beltsville, Md. experiment farm, dairy specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture used permanent pasture with a grass seed mixture in the following proportions: orchard grass, 6 pounds; timothy, 4 pounds; redtop, 2 pounds; bluegrass, 4 pounds; red clover, four pounds; alsike clover, two pounds. This mixture has proved desirable for the vicinity of Washington, D. C. It is sowed about April 1 on ground that was fall-plowed and manured.

Guinea for Game
Guinea fowls are used extensively as a substitute for game birds and guinea raising in small flocks on general farms is becoming more profitable. The demand in late summer at city markets is for young birds weighing from 1 to 1 1/2 pounds. As the fall season advances heavier birds are in demand. Guineas are fed in much the same way as chickens, but

Weed Trees

What is a "weed tree?" According to the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, weed trees are the less desirable trees growing in a farm woodland or other timber stand. They are the trees which, when compared to others in the stand, promise the least return in terms of dollars and cents. In the northeast, blue beech, iron wood, and occasionally red maple are usually classed as weed trees, while in the South scrub-pine is included in the list. Each region has its own weed trees. The most satisfactory way for the woodland owner to decide between "weed" and "crop" trees is to remove the dead and dying trees, the trees overshadowed by larger trees, and those of such inferior form that it is evident they cannot produce valuable sawlogs.

ESTABLISH TROUT FEEDING STATIONS

At least three trout feeding stations will be established in the upper peninsula of Michigan within the next year by the fish division of the department of conservation which is initiating a large program for the propagation of fish.

Several available sites for feeding stations were investigated recently by A. B. Cook, field superintendent of the fish division, and his reports are being used as preliminaries to establishing the stations.

The feeding station at Thompson's has a capacity of 3,500,000 trout. Cook has recommended enlargement of the feeding station on the East Branch of the Tahquamenon river in Chippewa county to provide accommodation for 800,000 fingerlings.

There are now 14 feeding stations in operation in Michigan. It is expected that this number will be at least doubled as soon as it is physically possible to build and prepare them.

According to travelers, certain tribes in the South Sea Islands sleep on pillows made from the trunks of trees. They must have got the idea from the seaside hotels.

MAKES HIS HOME IN DRY SUBMARINE

French Writer Has Built Weird Structure.

Paris.—France's literary lion-of-the-moment, Maurice Dekobra, makes his home in a submarine.

"You've got to do things like this if you want to get real color for your books," Dekobra declares. "Just now I'm working on a novel in which the big thrill occurs under the sea, where, for me, is my submarine."

Being original in all things, Dekobra has not troubled to go down to the sea to live in his submarine; he built one in his own home in Paris, thus creating the most novel residence in a city, wherein many seek the unusual and bizarre.

Dekobra's home is one of the grand mansions just off the boulevards. Outwardly it is one of those rare old relics of the thrilling times when aristocrats sheltered themselves from the mob behind high gates and weather-beaten gray walls, but once you enter the massive doors you find your self in an atmosphere unrivaled either in the past or present. Traversing an octagonal hall and descending broad stone stairs, you pass through a secret passage into the submarine. Jules Verne himself might have conceived and elaborated the astonishing chamber.

Expert Naval Construction.
A button pressed on the outside steel paneled door causes the submarine to revolve, leaving it cut off from the outside world.

The author has had expert naval advice in the construction of his curious home. Everything in the submarine is an exact replica of a regular sea-going undersea craft in the French navy—periscope, imitation en gines, depth and range finders, steam gauge, starboard and port lights, compass tubes and steering devices. Open portholes reveal what appears to be ocean fishes, marine plants and the varied panorama of the sea depths all painted on canvas and illuminated by changing lights.

Most ingenious of all, by a cunning arrangement of the steering wheel Dekobra is able to turn out a cocktail for his guests each time he turns the wheel.

By another manipulation the canvas with its simulation of the ocean underworld slides gently past, giving the impression of a moving submarine.

Other Bizarre Rooms.
Often the author spends weeks in his submarine, sleeping, eating there and he rarely permits visitors, considering intruders are liable to disturb the even tenor of his literary thoughts. Sometimes, however, he seeks repose in one of the other marvelous chambers of his exciting home, in which he has similarly reconstructed scenes of many of his celebrated novels.

Thus he has a reproduction of a pullman car, which represents his best-seller, "La Madone des Sleepings," which means "The Madonna of the Sleeping Car." There is every detail representing a European pullman compartment.

He has another wonderfully arranged room to represent his book "The Phantom of London," which caused an international sensation a year or so ago because of the daring situations.

Dekobra is now having another surprising addition made to his wonder home—an Indian temple in which the decorations will consist principally of the trophies he has brought back from his recent tour of India on which he has written a book now on sale on the Paris bookstands.

Engine "Knock" Was a Scared Mechanic

Chatham, Mass.—Police Chief Everett Eldridge visited a local automobile salesman as a prospective customer. "Take that car out for a spin and try it," suggested the salesman, pointing to a machine which was parked with motor running, in the yard.

Eldridge hopped in and drove away. Shortly afterward he reappe red. "I wouldn't buy a car that knocked the way this one does," he complained.

At this point, Leo Leblanc, grimy faced mechanic, crawled from beneath the automobile. It developed that he had been working under the car and, during the trial run, had saved himself from injury by holding himself suspended between the drip pan and axle.

The "knocking" resulted when he rapped with a hammer in a frantic effort to warn the driver of his plight.

Dog's Life Is Saved by Blood Transfusion

Los Angeles.—Pal o' Mine, a wire-haired fox terrier, is on the road to recovery after a blood transfusion, but hereafter he will have as much Pekinese as fox terrier blood.

Sassy, a snub nose pet of Dr. John F. McKenna, of a dog and cat hospital here, furnished the blood that saved the life of Pal o' Mine.

Pal o' Mine's need for such treatment came as a result of his vanity. He thought the coping around the roof of an apartment house was a fence and that he could leap it. He could, but found out it wasn't a fence when he landed four stories down on a concrete driveway.

No bones were broken, but internal injuries necessitated the blood transfusion.

Kiss by Mail
The use of crosses for kisses owes its origin to the time when few could write, and made their signatures by a cross. The later was solemnly blessed in token of faith and when education rendered an X signature unnecessary, the X was used as a kiss symbol only.

They are now delivering frankfurters by aeroplane in New York, but so far as we are concerned we are not in such a great hurry for ours.

A farmer friend who owns two General Motors cars went to the city the other day and stopped in to see some cousins. They showed him around their new roof garden apartment, eighteen floors above the street, and proudly pointed out their Frigidaire in the pantry.

"Well," chuckled our farmer friend, "Mother has a garden full of old-fashioned flowers that she'd never trade for theirs . . . and as for the refrigerator, we have a bigger Frigidaire than they have!"

He also mentioned his Delco-Light power system and his DL water pump, which give him every other city convenience. As he often says himself, his farm is "General Motorized from barn to bath tub!"

It is perfectly true that General Motors, through its various units, offers even more to the farm family than to the city family. By applying methods of automobile production to home electric lighting and power plants, water pumping systems, and automatic refrigerators, General Motors can make the reliable kind of product that a farmer wants, at a price he can afford.

Inside Information

If pockets cannot be placed on a child's dress because they spoil the design or if they cannot be used by means of pleats or other features, make a pocket on the bloomers or drawers. Every child needs a pocket in every dress or suit.

Leftover egg yolks have many uses. They are a valuable source of iron and so should always be utilized. They may be hard-cooked in the double boiler, mashed and seasoned for sandwich filling. Raw or hard-cooked egg yolks make a good foundation for salad dressing. Several good egg sauces for fish or meat can be made with the yolks only, and soft custard for dessert is still another use.

One of the most common causes of failure in making sauerkraut is the use of too much salt. The righting station, Detroit. These two old quantities is 2 1/2 per cent by weight of cabbage packed. When cabbage is to be fermented in very warm weather, it may be well to use a little more salt but not to exceed 3 per cent. The salt should be evenly distributed. The red streaks sometimes seen in sauerkraut are believed to be due to uneven distribution of salt.

Probably fewer sandwiches would be discarded from children's lunch boxes if the bread were always of the "best quality." Children will eat more bread if different kinds are served. Sometimes so simple as baking the bread in a new form, or twisting or rolling instead of a loaf, or cutting the sandwiches into fancy shapes with a cookie cutter, will increase interest in it. The change of flavor given by added raisins, dried currants, dates or nut meats is also an inducement to like the lunch bread.

When sour milk is to be substituted for sweet in making quick breads and cakes use the same quantity of sour milk and enough baking soda to neutralize the acid, or one scant half teaspoon for each cup of sour milk. For griddle cakes and thin batters, soda and sour milk generally furnish enough leavening, but thicker batters and dough require some baking powder in addition. In substituting sweet milk for sour, use 4 teaspoons of baking powder for each spoonful of soda if no other acid ingredient is used, such as molasses. If such an acid is used, some soda is needed.

AMERICAN BATTLESHIPS IN FOREIGN NAVY

American battleships in a foreign navy—such is the employment of the former U. S. S. Mississippi and U. S. S. Idaho, sold to Greece fifteen years ago, according to the Navy Recruitment Station, Detroit. These two old ships were the backbone of the "Greek Navy," and played an important part for Greece in the World War, and figured conspicuously in the subsequent war between Greece and Turkey. They tributed. The red streaks sometimes seen in sauerkraut are believed to be due to uneven distribution of salt.

Good Cow Eats Less Feed and Makes More Money

EVERY MOUTHFUL COW EATS COUNTS

A good dairy cow is a money-maker because she produces more butterfat and requires less feed for making a pound of it than a poor cow. declares the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. The reason for this greater and more efficient production by the higher producing cow is due to the fact that a smaller part of the total feed she eats is used for maintenance purposes. She keeps up her body weight and good health. On the other hand, a poor producer actually fed to not one bit of making a profitable production because she uses the greater part of her feed for maintenance purposes.

and even for trying on fat, while a comparatively small proportion of the feed she eats is left for converting into milk.

The importance of good milk production in its relation to a cow's profits is illustrated by the records for one month of over five hundred milking cows in one Wisconsin cow-testing association. Herds in this association which produced in one month an average of less than 20 pounds of butterfat required 10 pounds of grain or concentrates for each pound of butterfat they produced. The monthly income over feed cost of each of these cows averaged $9.80. The better-producing cows, those with an average monthly production of over 30 pounds of butterfat, consumed but 8 pounds of grain for each pound of butterfat they produced, and each made an average profit for the month of $10.01 above the cost of her feed.

Find Relation Between Moon and Earthquakes

After studying the records of more than 1,200 earthquakes in California which have occurred since 1912, a Pacific coast scientist comes to the interesting conclusion that all the quakes came when the moon was in a certain quarter. The quakes occur on a fault-line, or crack in the substructure of the earth's crust. It was found that when the fault-line ran in a north-westerly direction the earthquake would come when the moon was between the meridian and the western horizon, or when it had not yet arisen and was in the directly opposite position.

When the quake occurred on a fault-line running east and west, it was found that the moon would be in the corresponding quadrants of the sky. Four out of five of the strongest shocks occurring in one place would come when the moon was in the same position it had been in during the main shock. Just why this relationship between the moon's position and earthquakes is so consistent has not yet been explained.

Took Pessimistic View of Wire Communication

A number of prominent men of Professor Morse's period were dubious about the practicality of the telegraph and believed it to have very restricted limits. In view of the development of this form of communication and its present high efficiency it is interesting to note some of these early comments. J. Fenimore Cooper, author of the famous Leatherstocking Tales, wrote to Morse on January 31, 1838, as follows: "My dear friend: I wish you all success with the telegraph, which might be made very useful for long distances. Your difficulties will be in communicating between more than two stations, for half a dozen sparks traveling on the same wire will play the devil with the registers." The Western Union today sends as many as eight messages over one wire at the same time by ingenious automatic devices.

Chocolate Ancient Beverage

Chocolate was a favored drink on this continent long before the arrival of the white man. It was extensively used by the Aztecs and before them the Toltecs. A Florentine who had resided in the West Indies finally introduced chocolate into Italy, whence its use gradually spread through Europe, though not without opposition. Its introduction into Prussia was prohibited by Frederick the Great. A famous Paris physician, Bochoz, on the other hand, proclaimed cacao one of the most noble of discoveries, far more worthy to be the food of the gods than nectar and ambrosia, and Plinius, noted Swedish botanist, who gave cacao its scientific christening, coined a name, "Theobroma," from two Greek words, meaning "food for the gods," which retains its scientific name today.

A Promise

Although she had never been married, all her views on matrimony were very strict. So, of course, she had to call on the young divorcee and tell her so.

"Frankness was one of the virtues on which she prided herself, so the conversation had not progressed far before she declared to the young bride, 'Pardon my saying so, but don't you think you might have waited more than a month after your divorce to marry your second husband?'" "Oh, do you really think so?" replied the bride, "I'll make it a point to wait longer next time."

Midget Kangaroos

Australia has more than 100 varieties of animals in which the mother carries her young in a pouch on her stomach, says James T. Nichols in Successful Farming Magazine. "The most noted of all these animals is the kangaroo," he writes, "and which there are a half hundred varieties. Some kangaroos are small as a cat and others are so large that when standing on their toes they are taller than a man. Although a kangaroo is a tiny animal, at birth it is very small, often but little larger than a mouse."

Patience Is a Virtue

A rather unusual man once said to the writer: "I let most of my mail lie on my desk 30 days unanswered. After that time I generally find little or it needs to be answered." This habit is not without its drawbacks, but there is something in it. Most of us, if we had the patience to wait so long, to let them wait to hold their tongue, so many things would settle themselves. So many things we argue about and even quarrel about would disappear if left alone—Philadelphia Star.

Primitive Home Life

Rural Japanese housewife roll up their beds and store them away every morning. The Samois have no bathrooms. They bathe daily in the cool mountain streams. Their furnishings are limited to pots or gourds. Pebbles on the bare ground replace carpets. The Egyptian peasant along the Nile lives in a clay house. His bed and chair are a ledge of earth on the side of the room. In Arabia, dinner is served in a huge pot into which the diners dig with their hands and bring forth their portion.

Looking Ahead in South

Opinion in the South that the practice of forestry can be made to pay substantial profits now amounts to almost a positive assurance, says the American Tree Association. A lively interest has arisen in the rearing of timber crops on hewed-off lands.

The way the American people are becoming air-minded it wouldn't surprise us if the next popular sport would be airplane polo.

SOMETHING WRONG

She—That English lord talks with perfect ease.
He—Yes, his "es" are all right. It's his "h's" that are on the Fritz.

BOTH PAINFUL

He—I get a pain in the heart every time you're near.
She—That's nothing. You give me a pain in the neck.

THREW HIM OVER

He—I hear you threw young Smith, the dentist, over.
She—I should say so. He wanted to give me gas before kissing me.

WOULD SAY YES

He—If I proposed would you say yes?
She—If you propose a dinner, I would.

WEALTHY INDEED

Is your friend wealthy?
"Wealthy? Why, man, he has three daughters at boarding school and doesn't have to give it the least thought."

RIGHT INSURANCE

"Why did he take out marine instead of life insurance I'd like to know?"
"He has a floating kidney you see."

Pot Elephants Dangerous

The most dangerous elephants in captivity, it has been said, are those which have been brought up as pets from infancy. They become dangerous because they come to realize the superiority of their strength over their masters.

KNOWING HIS ASHES

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Thomas was going through the annual orgy of having the basement cleaned out. His wife attended to the task of putting everything above the cellar into sanitary condition and seemed to enjoy it. Below ground it was Thompson's task, and a mess of other things there was the winter's accumulation of ashes.

"This is an age of specialization, and even in our small town we have an ash man who gives all his time and all his talents to the disposal of ashes. It was he, of course, whose services Thompson employed in carting away the remains of what had once been a supply of fuel.

"What 'a' you been burnin'?" the ash man inquired as he viewed the pile of clinders lying in one corner of the cellar.

"Well, coke, mostly," Thompson replied, "mixed with a little coal."

"I could see at the first glance that it wasn't coal," the laboring man stated. "I ain't educated, but I do know my ashes."

It is an accomplishment which a man properly should know his ashes.

"I have you little thing, Sammie," asked the clerk in the book store. "I was getting a birthday remembrance for a child of my acquaintance and I thought he might be interested in the story of the little colored boy."

The salesman looked over the long line of shelves in an endeavor to find the desired volume. He opened a few drawers placed over a table of miscellaneous books nearby, confusion showing on his countenance.

"I don't seem to find it," he explained finally. "But we have Black Beauty, and the Black Tulip."

There was a man who did not know his ashes.

Denton occupies a prominent position in a big organization, but he has been reading. He is far from doing; he is even cordially disliked by many of the people who work with him, or perhaps I should say who work for him. Denton prides himself that he plays no favorites; he treats everybody alike. The trouble with him is that he doesn't know his ashes. It has never got through his head that diplomacy is a virtue; that the sensitive self-conscious man should be approached in a far different manner than the bully; that some men are intimidated by praise and others by pride. Denton prides no one. It would seem to him a weakness to do as he makes friends with anyone. He sits in cold isolation in his rare office and gives orders. If he only knew a little of human nature and could some way get to it, he might some-day be almost a great person.

The ash man could teach many of us a very important lesson. The recognition of different conditions of different personalities, or a varied method of approach in business transactions, of the value of what at first might seem trifling details—these qualities make or mar success. It pays to know one's ashes.

Rev. Greenwood and family returned home Monday from the annual district conference held at Ann Arbor last week. The local church going public will be glad to know that he has been appointed to return to Grayling for another year as pastor of the Michelson Memorial church. A Methodist preacher never feels certain as to what church he will be assigned from year to year, and his returning to Grayling this year will meet the highest approval of almost everyone in the city. Most welcome back!

America's finest
medium-priced automobile

Today's Oakland All-American Six stands out unmistakably as America's finest medium-priced automobile. Its value supremacy has been established by facts revealed in comparison of the All-American Six with twenty other medium-priced automobiles. Let us go over all the results of this comparison with you. When you have seen how on every basis of comparison the All-American Six towers above its field—you will agree with us that you get more for your dollar in America's finest medium-priced automobile.

Proof of Oakland Value Superiority

The following facts were obtained from a comparison of the Oakland All-American Six with 20 other medium-priced automobiles. All told, 278 individual comparisons were made. Of these, Oakland proved to be distinctly superior in 451 of 513, or 88 per cent. The 20 cars combined were at best equal to Oakland on 551 of 630 per cent. And 13 of the 20 were higher priced than Oakland.

WHEELBASE

Only one car as low-priced as Oakland has a wheelbase as long as Oakland's, which is 117 inches. And you require a turning circle to the left of 42 feet as compared with Oakland's 36 feet. But higher-priced cars have shorter wheelbases.

FISHER BODY

Only Oakland and two other cars in the field offer bodies by Fisher. And one of the two is nearly $100 higher in price than Oakland. Of the 18 cars which have less-than-Fisher bodies, 11 are priced above the All-American Six.

Only Oakland and one other car in the field offer the five-speed of brakes which Oakland employs. And no car in the field equals Oakland's 200 square inches of brake band area.

Oakland's separate emergency brake operates on the transmission. Seven cars in the field have no separate emergency brakes, although three of them exceed Oakland in price.

PISTON DISPLACEMENT

Oakland's 228 cubic inch piston displacement is greater than 12 of the 20 cars in the field. Of the 8 remaining cars, 7 are much higher priced than Oakland.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobiles. Oakland's delivered price includes only the cost of transportation and the charge for freight and delivery. It does not include any additional accessories or financing charges.

SPEAKING OF COURTESY

East Michigan cities, towns and villages receive many compliments because of the courtesy manifested toward tourists and motorists. The East Michigan tourist association received many direct commendations from visitors accentuating this point. Most of the communities are constantly on the lookout to augment this attitude of courtesy and friendliness.

Grants Pass, Oregon, recently initiated a plan which is making a pronounced hit with tourists. One of the main streets three miles in length, is set aside for the parking convenience of visitors. The street is part of the main line of the Pacific Highway. Residents of the city park on side streets. There is no time limit up to 1:00 o'clock in the morning for parking on this main artery.

Sickly Boy, 7, Gains 15 lbs. Father Happy

"My boy, 7, would not eat. I gave him Vinol and the way he eats and plays now makes me happy. He gained 15 pounds."—J. F. Andres. Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. The very first bottle often adds several pounds weight to thin children or adults. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Tastes delicious. Mac & Gidley, Druggists.

Could Not Work; Konjola Scores Quick Triumph

Modern Compound Proves More Than A Medicine—A Body-Building Tonic

MRS. ERNEST HALE

"I had stomach trouble so long that my general health was depleted and undermined," said Mrs. Ernest Hale, 14943 Strathmore avenue, Detroit, Mich. "I finally became so low in vitality that I could not attend to my household duties. I lost weight, too, and was completely discouraged over the outlook."

"Konjola was strongly recommended to me and I decided to give it a trial. Day after day the improvement was more marked and when I had completed the 12th bottle I was not only completely well, but had gained weight and strength. Konjola not only restored my health, but built up my body and down system. Now I can put in a good day's work around the house and still not feel all run-down and tired in the evening. Konjola is certainly a wonderful medicine and I praise it highly."

Konjola is sold in Grayling, Mich., at the Mac & Gidley drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

SCHOOL NOTES

of the evening. The students all met in the auditorium of the M. E. church and dined in the dining room in the order of their grades. With Mr. Hill leading the songs, everyone did his best to make himself heard in the general excitement preceding supper. The speakers of the evening were: Mr. T. P. Peterson—Toastmaster. Thorwald Sorenson—Freshman Welcome.

Jack Zeder—Freshman Answer. Mr. Hill—Faculty. Mr. Peterson—Superintendent's Welcome. Mr. LaBarge—Answer. Mr. M. A. Bates—Board of Education. Mr. Cushman—Greetings to the Orchestra.

The class day dance from 8:30 to 12:00 climaxed the day. An orchestra composed of Alumni and High School students furnished music during supper and dance.

Grayling High School pep was much in evidence all day, and every student had an opportunity to show his loyalty to both school and class.

Scout News
The White Pine Girl Scout troop met last Tuesday night for the first meeting of the year. The patrol numbers thirty members, exactly twice as many as last year.

Because of the amount of business to be transacted in getting organized, no entertainment was provided. Elections for secretary and treasurer of the troop also took place, in which Loretta Sorenson was elected Secretary and Mary Mahneke Treasurer.

A wienie roast was greatly enjoyed last Tuesday night at Connie's grove.

The Boy Scouts held their meeting last week with a large crowd in attendance. After a short business meeting, Mr. Hill, Scout leader, conducted drill to get the boys in practice again. Afterward the more athletically inclined scouts enjoyed a game of basketball.

From now on the Boy Scouts will meet every Tuesday evening at 7:00 o'clock.

Grade News

The grade pupils are being given health examinations this week and their individual weights are recorded on the posters of each grade room. It is very interesting to note that those who took milk in school last year have gained considerably and in one instance a pupil shows a gain of fifteen pounds.

The first grade has chosen as its Doctor this week, Oscar Holmberg. Five girls, Pat Roberts, Katherine Peterson, Kathleen Kraus, Audrey Gannon and Catherine Charron, won stars for neatness this week in the first grade.

The first grade under the supervision of its teacher, Miss Arnold, went for a walk to view the beauties of Autumn Nature.

A home book for the first grade library has been started for the little people. If all you mothers are wondering where your catalogs are going, ask to see the little first graders Home Project Books. These are made by the children themselves.

Grocers attention! If any pupils come in for empty cartons or samples, please accommodate them by granting their request as they are making grocery stores and need the making. This is an interesting project and your courtesy will be appreciated.

Won't Be Long Now!!! Basketball
Mr. Cushman is taking over the girls basketball team this year. And are they glad? Monday after school he called a meeting of all the prospects and told them the principles of the game. As one of the girls said, "I learned more from him in those few minutes than I have for the last two years."

The coach also told the girls that they might play a two court game this year instead of three court. This is a somewhat harder game but much more interesting to play. He says, "it needs brainwork." Think the girls can stand it?

Miss Hildebrand is going to act as sponsor for the team.

Personals

Arthur May's broken wrist is mending rapidly. Art is anxious for it to heal, since basketball season is so near.

Last week the American Literature classes began a study of Washington Irving and his famous Knickerbocker history. Mr. LaBarge offered an "A" for the best sketch of Wonder Van Twiller, principal character of the story. The three students who were fortunate enough to obtain "A's" for their fine drawings were Margaret Fehr, Laura Sammons, and Virginia Morrissey. Margaret Warren received a "B" for her effort.

Thorwald Sorenson seems to have incurred the displeasure of his fellow students and he expects a royal hazing in the future. Wonder why? Ask "Bones," he knows.

Clara Bugby has returned to school after a week's absence with blood poisoning in her heel.

THREE NAVIES JOIN IN FLEET SMOKE

In an unusual instance of international good will three navies—the U. S., Japanese and Chilean, were represented at a Fleet smoker recently held in San Francisco, according to the Navy Recruiting Station, Detroit. The occasion was the visit of training squadrons from the two foreign navies. Boxing, wrestling, Japanese fencing and Judo, a form of Japanese wrestling, were featured. It is very rare for an international meet of this particular type to be held.

Kiss by Mail

The use of crosses for kisses owes its origin to the time when few could write, and made their signatures by a cross. The later was solemnly kissed in token of faith, and when education rendered an X signature unnecessary, the X was used as a kiss symbol only.
